

Lucy Burns Museum

91 YEARS OF PRISON HISTORY AT LORTON

Volunteers Needed!

- Do you like history?
- Do you like to talk to people of all ages?
 - The Lucy Burns Museum tells the 91 year history (1910-2001) of the District of Columbia Workhouse and Reformatory otherwise known as Lorton Prison. We are actively looking for volunteers to fill the role of docent (tour guides).
 - All training is provided. Work in a new museum with a dedicated group of fellow volunteers and our small staff.
 - Docent shifts are currently Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons and for special events and tours.

Other opportunities

- Research: The Lucy Burns Museum is still in an active research mode. If you like to work in libraries, archives and online databases the LBM needs your help. Training and help provided.
- Graphic Design: The Lucy Burns Museum needs an individual with graphic design skills to help design exhibit panels, brochures and more.

For more information about volunteering at the Lucy Burns Museum please email <mailto:museum@workhousearts.org> or call 703-584-2972.