Job Description

About Music at the Workhouse

Are you a musician with a passion for teaching your craft? Do you have experience working with children and/or adults in an educational setting? Are you looking for a teaching opportunity? This program is a growing venture for the Workhouse! With our quality facility and connection to the arts community, our music programming is going to become a staple in the area. We are seeking exciting and enthusiastic instructors to teach technique-intensive music classes to children and adults throughout the year. Instructors must be kind and fun-loving, work well with other staff members, and have a genuine interest in music education. String teachers are needed to help expand our group class offerings. Teachers should be experienced in teaching group classes.

Instructor Requirements

- Bachelor’s degree in music
- Minimum of two years teaching experience and/or professional experience within specific medium
- Fun, energetic, and interested in working with children and/or adults
- Knowledgeable of different styles and techniques
- Interested in working with a new and developing program in a dynamic facility
- Punctual and accountable for their own schedule

COVID 19 Class Policies

- Our group classes are currently limited to 9 students to ensure a maximum of ten people per room.
- Masks are required for students and teachers while inside our buildings.
- Six feet distance to be maintained throughout instruction.

Full list of policies available upon request.*

How Do I Apply?
